

Sinclair
Broadcasting's
decision to force
their stations to air an anti-Kerry
documentary days
before the election
is an abuse of their power and
fraudulent means to get around election
campaign
advertising rules.

The airwaves belong
to the people of the U.S. and we expect broadcasters to honor their commitment to people by not
abusing the great power bestowed upon them. Up until now
this seems to have been a commitment
which was honored by broadcaster who try
the best they can to be neutral. But Sinclair's decision
to air in primetime
a tv show that belittles one of the candidates threatens
to destroy the public trust in
free network news
and unless strict rules are put into place, tv will slide
down that slippery slope and erode our freedoms in this country.
